Protecting Your Money

Before we send your premium on to the insurer, we hold it in an insurer trust account. We do this on behalf of the insurer. This means your policy has been paid for as soon as you pay us. We may give customers credit from the account your money is held in, and in some cases, pay money to other intermediaries. Your money will always be protected, because this is required by the FCA. We reserve the right to retain the interest earned on this account. Interest won't be more than £20 on each transaction.

We check that the insurers who we offer cover from are reputable, fair and solvent. We can't guarantee that this will continue to be the case, but we do check regularly to make sure.

We're covered by the Financial Services Compensations Scheme (FSCS). The FSCS steps in when financial services firms go into default. In the unlikely event of that happening to Ramasis Ltd, you may be able to claim. Insurance advising is covered for 100% of the first £2,000 of any losses and up to 90% of any additional amounts claimed, with no upper limit. Compulsory insurance is protected in full. You can find out more at www.fscs.org.uk. Credit broking is not covered by the FSCS.
